Min launches tech lounge at city college

Chennai: A state-of-the-art computer centre was inaugurated by K Pandiarajan, minister for Tamil official language & Tamil culture, at Rajalakshmi Engineering College on its 20th anniversary. The REC Tech Lounge will provide advanced computer infrastructure and is equipped with 850 computers.

A seminar on "How to gain from India's democratic dividend-the way forward" was conducted on the occasion. "Today's businesses have become dependent on SMACI technology which stands for Social, Mobile, Analytics, Cloud, IoT," said Pandiarajan. Thangam Meganathan, chairperson of the college, said, "The government of India has recognised the college as a scientific and industrial research organisation (SIRO), considering its potential for research and development." GK Vasan, former Union minister for shipping, was also present at the launch TNN
